Martin's Storage Offers 4-Weeks Free Storage to Help Businesses in Kingston and Area

The company is offering four-weeks of free storage to any business in Kingston, Frontenac, Lennox and Addington to help businesses in their effort to clear inventory, equipment and furniture to re-open to businesses with physical distancing.

Over the past several weeks, many local businesses across Kingston and area have been feeling the effects of a forced closure in response to Emergency Orders issued by the province. As governments begin discussions on easing restrictions and permitting businesses to re-open to the public, owners must determine how to re-start business operations while providing appropriate health and safety measures for both their customers and their employees - in particular, physical distancing.

To facilitate physical distancing, businesses will need to move merchandise, furniture, displays and equipment to produce the necessary space, creating an immediate need for off-site storage. Martin's Storage is making an effort to help businesses in KFL&A by offering four weeks storage, at no cost, at its Get Smart Storage facility located at 2880 Princess Street.

Get Smart Storage will provide businesses with several different size options to suit their need, all located within a gated access-controlled facility. Local businesses can visit martinsstorage.ca to make a reservation, citing their business name in the comments section. Alternatively, they can reach out to any one of Martin's Storage's four location in Kingston by phone or email:
